THE PROBLEM

New Heights Educational Group is based in the U.S., but has a world-wide reach. The Global State of Literacy demonstrates the international impact of low literacy.

International Adult Literacy Facts

ProLiteracy's work to improve adult literacy rates worldwide directly aligns with the UN Sustainable Development Goal on education to ensure all youth and a substantial number of adults—both men and women—achieve literacy and numeracy by 2030.¹

The Global State of Literacy

Despite the steady rise in literacy rates over the past 50 years, United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) data shows that in 2020, 763 million adults worldwide still don't have basic literacy skills.

While more adults are literate today, it is largely because more went to school when they were young—not because they were given a second chance to learn as adults.²

Low Literacy Rates by Region³

The Cost of Low Literacy

Economic

$1 Trillion

Low literacy costs the global economy more than $1 trillion each year.⁴

30%-42% less earnings

Adults with low literacy earn 30%-42% less than their literate peers.⁶

Social

50% more likely

In developing countries, a child born to a mother who can read is 50% more likely to survive past age 5.⁷

If all adults completed secondary school, the global poverty rate would be more than halved.⁸

Women's Literacy

2/3 of adults with low literacy skills are women.⁹

More than half of all disadvantaged rural women in developing countries lack basic literacy skills.¹⁰

Of the 99 million illiterate youth, 56% are girls.¹¹

The Digital Divide

53% of people in developing countries do not have access to the internet compared to 13% in the rest of the world.

Globally, only 40% of primary, 50% of intermediate, and 65% of high school-level schools have internet access.

Almost 9% of the global population—and more than 70% of people in rural sub-Saharan Africa—lack access to electricity.¹²
